The Only Thing More Frightening Than A Ghost That Haunts A House Is One That Haunts Your Head.

After sitting abandoned for nearly twenty years, the Cummins family has just moved into the Geister House - a place that has seen its' two previous families disappear without a trace.

Unaware of the history, Stephen and his new wife Sarah are hoping to begin a new life with his two children, fifteen year old Jackie and seven year old Nick. Not long after moving in, Nick meets a ghostly figure named Matty. The two become fast friends, much to the concern and skepticism of Stephen and Sarah. They painfully assume that Matty is another incarnation of Nick's attempt to cope with his inability to make friends at school.

As the bond between Nick and Matty grows, Nick starts to undergo a troubling change in personality. He becomes more withdrawn and hostile towards his family. Mysterious things begin to happen: strange noises, items disappearing, and people dying. Just as things are coming to a head, the unthinkable happens - Nick disappears!

Could this all be an unfortunate coincidence? What really happened to the previous families who lived in the house? Is the Cummins family next? Nothing will prepare you for what lives within the walls of the Geister House.
